St. Mother Teresa of Calcutta → Early Life : She was born to Albanian parents, Nikola and Dranfile Bojaxhiu in Macedonia. Her father was a businessman, and the devout family were heavily involved with the Catholic Church. Her father passed away when she was eight, and it was her mother who taught her the value of caring for the sick and poor.

Turning Point : She was educated at the nearby convent school and went on a trip to the Church of the Black Madonna in Letnice when she was 12. Later she became a nun, travelling to Dublin, Ireland, to join the Sisters of Loreto. She became known as Sister Mary Teresa.

Mission and Work: Her novitiate period began in Darjeeling, India. She was sent on to Saint Mary's High School for Girls, in Kolkata, where she taught girls from the city's poorest families. Since she would be based in India, she learned to speak the local languages fluently. When she took her final vows to live a life of poverty, chastity and obedience, she became known as 'Mother' as was usual with the Loreto order. She rose to become the Principal of the school in 1944. Her idea was to remove poverty from the students' lives through education.

Within a few years however, she answered her heart's desire to directly serve the poor and sick who lived in the city's slums. It was very difficult to receive permission to leave the convent and set out on her mission, but after a prolonged period of lobbying, she was successful. She went into the terrible slums of the city, armed with a little medical knowledge and great compassion to care for the sick and the poor. She established a leper colony, an orphanage, a nursing home, a family clinic and mobile health clinics in the city. Her efforts at providing effective care for the poor and unwanted garnered attention from Pope Paul VI, who conferred the Decree of Praise upon the Missionaries of Charity. In 1979, she was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for her outstanding efforts to alleviate human suffering.

Inspirational Quotes from Mother Teresa

"Not all of us can do great things. But we can do small things with great love."

"Be faithful in small things because it is in them that your strength lies."

"We ourselves feel that what we are doing is just a drop in the ocean. But the ocean would be less because of that missing drop."

"If you can't feed a hundred people, then feed just one."

"Love cannot remain by itself – it has no meaning. Love has to be put into action, and that action is service."
